More Instructions for Assessment's Exercises

June 16, 2006

When preparing your e-mail submission of the Assessment's Exercises, take into account the following considerations:

- 1. Think you are preparing a report for a client, or for some person who asked you the information.
- 2. Include all the material in ONE file, preferable PDF (this protects you against changes in the report).
- 3. Include all the information required, but nothing more than this.
- 4. You can include some comments, remarks or opinions, clearly separated from the main body of the report.
